RED OAK

Volume 50

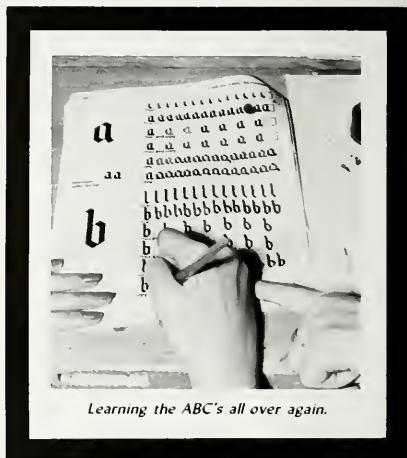

Education at RV — rich in tradition and stemming from every corner: from structured or relaxed classrooms . . .

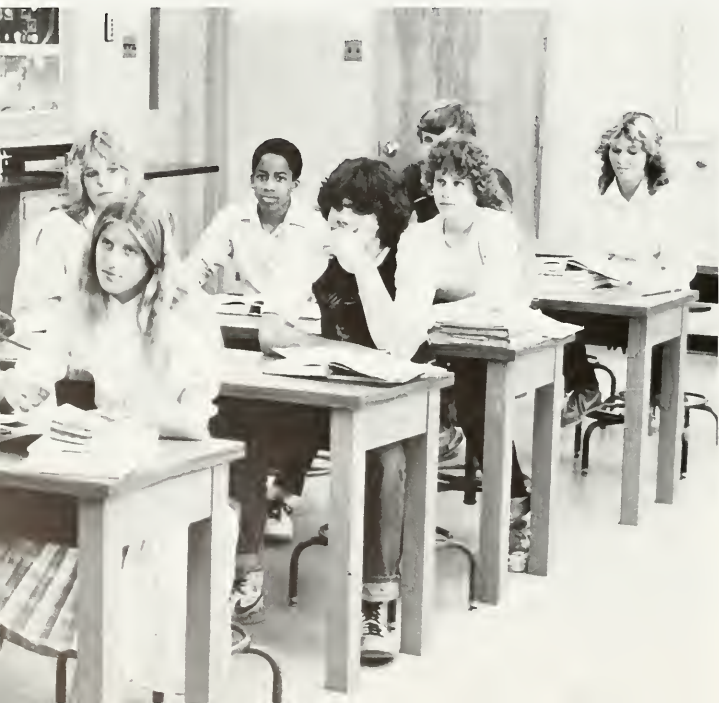

Adrienne Tweedie puts the finishing touches on an assignment.

Mary Ann Loehr works on the art of calligraphy.

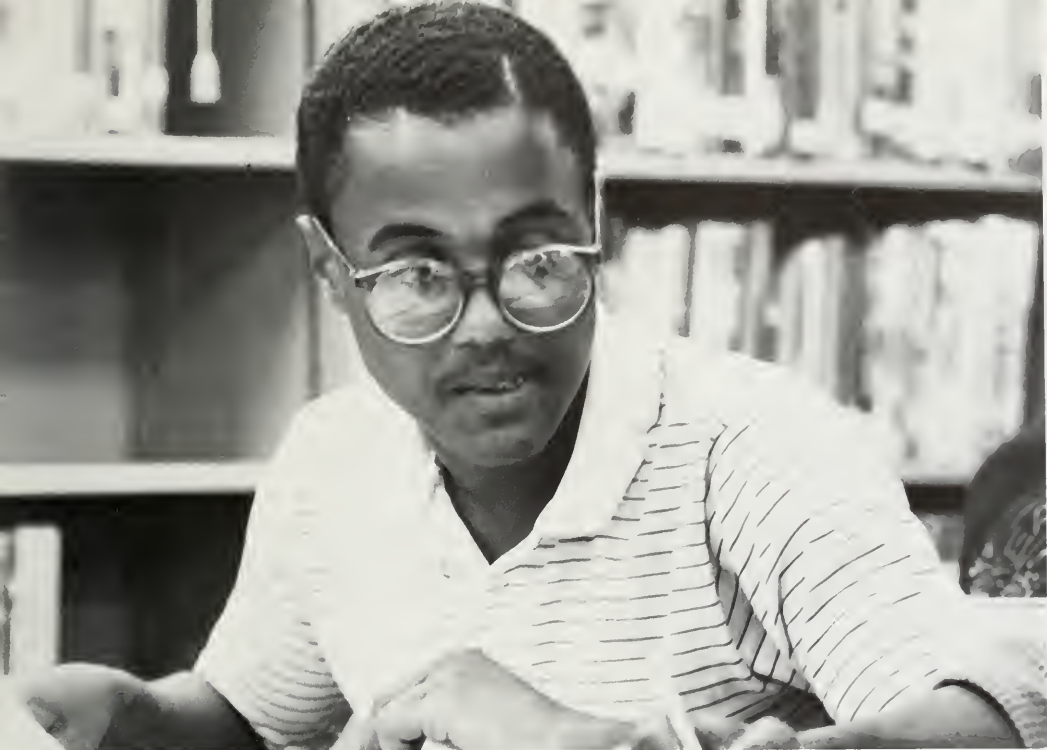

Learning the ABC's all over again.

Academically speaking, RV is an institution that is often exceedingly strict and occasionally lenient. Regardless of the subject area, maturity, responsibility, and self-sufficiency are the qualities teachers try to instill in us. And though they don't believe us for a minute when we say, "The dog ripped it to shreds!" teachers smile and somehow trick us into realizing that getting a zero has taught us more than the assignment ever could.

Freshmen take in some scientific data.

Dan Frisby checks over some answers.

Seniors organize their social studies' assignments.

Mount Holly, the small town that George Washington passed through many years ago, is the home of RV and many of its students. Although not perfect, it does offer many things — from its historical buildings to its county facilities to its cultural and commercial attractions. There is much here to service and entertain us. Its tree-lined routes have become familiar to us all in our daily travel to and from RV.

even from some non-academic avenues

RV guarantees its students more than enough opportunities to have fun and explore their individual interests. Students have access to a variety of athletic, cultural, and social activities. When students' interests change, every attempt is made to provide them with outlets for their various talents and needs, even those as basic as a favorite mealtime treat.

And in the midst of this tradition, we recognize change. We sense it is important to consider SOMETHING DIFFERENT.

St. Andrews Church

The academic and non-academic aspects of RV all come together during the course of a year. We give our time and ourselves to this place, and we become a part of it. When we leave here to go our separate ways, we might not intend to look back. Yet one day something may stir our thoughts. We'll recall a fond, school day and realize how much Rancocas Valley and Mount Holly have meant to us.

STAFF

The first consideration in the search for SOMETHING DIFFERENT was how to present the staff this year. In previous years we have featured them out of their offices, classrooms, and work stations — preserved forever in a formal picture that didn't tell us very much about these people with whom we spend the better part of ten months a year. This time we decided to group them with their co-workers in informal shots, tell something about what they do here, and let everyone see at a quick glance what each of these groups does to make Rancocas Valley the unique institution that it is. We have also thrown in a few facts and figures that may interest you about them and RV.

Facts & Figures:

School building built: 1937

Cost of original building: $307,000.

Additions made to main building: 1947, 1953, 1957, 1965

Cost of additions: $3,614,000.

School ground acreage: 20

Total school budget: $7,404,000.

Number of years served by individual employed the longest at RV: 34

Individual who has been employed for this time: Mrs. Janet Eckman

Number of RV graduates employed here: approximately 30

Number of employees with baccalaureate degrees: 51

Number of employees with masters degrees: 76

Number of employees with doctoral degrees: 3

Average length of employment of current staff: 14.5 years

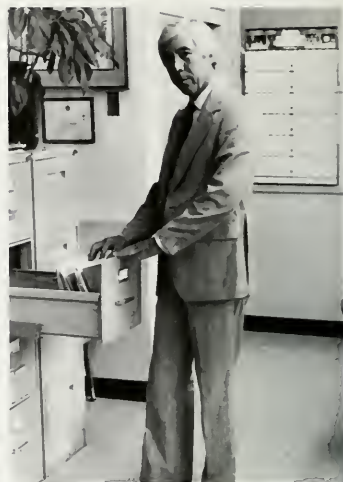

Total school employees: 190

Teaching staff: 112

The administration consists of the people who make all of the educational policies and carry them out at RV. With such a complex task at hand, why do they look so happy here? They are glad to have a chance for a short picture break, a break from the reality of a very difficult job. When are the next pictures?!

Man is a social being who has an inherent need to communicate with others. Through the study of English and foreign languages, one develops vital thinking, speaking, reading, and writing techniques that are necessary for effective communication and thus self-fulfillment. Without good, basic language skills, man erodes his very nature. Language is "the blood of the soul ... into which our thoughts run and out of which they grow." (Oliver Wendell Holmes)

BUSINESS EDUCATION

The teachers in the business education department believe a healthy economy rests on a populace educated to produce. In contributing to the economic growth and development of our nation, our strong business education program helps to resolve problems such as inflation, unemployment, consumer illiteracy and deficit spending by individuals.

The mathematics department is the group of teachers who assumes students have met basic skill requirements, but then re-groups and computerizes the students into those who are functional and those who are not. The math instructors challenge students in hope that they will produce a limitless volume of their unknown capacity.

"To renew ties with the past need not always be daydreaming; it may be tapping old sources of strength for new tasks."

The Social Studies Department believes firmly in Simeon Strunsky's philosophy and strives to instill its reality in the students by making "yesterday's" lessons practical for "today's" world.

STUDENT PERSONNEL

Where can you go and complain that the computer gave you the wrong schedule? Where can you go and complain that your teachers are working you too hard and they don't understand you? Where can you go to get babied, loved, patted on the back, and kicked in the pants all at the same time? Where can you go and talk about your hopes and dreams for the future? You can go to your parents with a problem, and they might respond by saying, "What do I know? Did you clean your room today or take out the trash?" The best advice is to go see your counselor.

The Secretarial Staff — masters of all trades and machines, and diplomats of exceptional worth. What other group in the school has to deal with parents, students, and staff often at the same time? Who else would take our calls, guard our lost belongings, hold on to our gym clothes and lunches, and deliver our messages — all without complaint? Their days are long, and their rewards are often lost in the shuffle of papers, schedules, and last minute memos. Running the school each day would be a virtual impossibility without the assistance of these exceptional individuals.

Mrs. Simmons checks some details with Valerie Pritchett.

SECURITY

"Do you have a pass?" "What are you doing in the hallway?" "Let me see your I.D." These are the familiar words of the Security Staff as they try to keep the students in some kind of order. Whether it's supervising the parking lots, evicting trespassers, checking I.D.'s, or breaking up a friendly brawl in the cafeteria, the Security Staff is hard at work keeping our school a safer, more pleasant place to be.

The Building Services Department is the M*A*S*H unit for the school. They make emergency repairs to fractured water lines, breathe new life into the flickering lights, and replace the weary front-line equipment that is so gallantly used by the rest of the staff. Our troops come in at night, sweeping and dusting, cleansing the smeared chalk boards of education-silently preparing the scene for yet another day on the front lines of education.

School cafeterias are often the cause of all the bad "food jokes" anyone could ever think of. But this is not the case for us. The Cafeteria Staff prepares the food from "scratch" for R.V. as well as two Eastampton schools. Every day the menu consists of a variety of foods, including hot lunches, a salad bar, and sandwiches. Perhaps this is why the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., this year named ours as one of the State's finest school cafeterias.

ACADEMICS

The SOMETHING DIFFERENT here is this entirely new section! Though academics have been included in other Red Oak's on a strictly incidental basis, we felt they deserved much more attention, especially since several new programs have been added.

Academics seem to have run "full circle" here at RV. Several years ago, "freedom" was the key word. We were able to select the courses we wanted, choose the teachers we liked, and sign up for a class with all our friends. It was fun, but it wasn't in our best interest. We suddenly realized this when the new final exam system came along, and we didn't know the material. We realized it also when we wanted to participate in extra-curricular activities and found there was an eligibility requirement: decent grades! Additional credits for graduation convinced us beyond all doubt that academics are what an education is all about. Without the knowledge and skills they expose us to, we don't stand much of a chance in the real world.

Facts & Figures:

Length of school days: 7:55-2:30

Number of class periods: 8 plus a tutorial period

Current grading system: A=100-93

B=92-85

C=84-77

D=76-70

F=69-0

Credits necessary for graduation: 116

Honor roll GPA: 3.0 (with no grade lower than C)

There are three work-experience programs available to interested and qualified students at RV. These programs are COE (Cooperative Office Education) for seniors with clerical skills, CIE (Cooperative Industrial Education) for juniors and seniors emphasizing trades or industry, and DE (Distributive Education) for seniors interested in marketing or distributive occupations. Each program involves both a related class during the school day and on-the-job experience for which students receive credit as well as a salary. Program highlights include banquets for students and job supervisors, but the most valuable aspect is preparation for future success in the job market.

By Giving Students A Taste Of The Real World

Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NJROTC) provides instruction in Naval subjects to develop a feeling of personal accomplishment, confidence, and leadership so that cadets will become mature, responsible citizens. The work of classroom and drill is balanced by the fun of field trips, ship visits, and boot-camp. This program, open to all students at RV, is jointly sponsored by the school and the U.S. Navy. An important aspect of the program is that students involved are under no obligation to enlist in any of the Armed Services after graduation.

Special Programs For Academic Talents

At RV there are now several ways to develop and reward outstanding academic talents. Two such programs are the newly-established Gifted and Talented Mentor Program (G/T) and the familiar standby, the National Honor Society (NHS). G/T participants were selected and later matched with community professionals with mutual interests. Members attend special sessions at school and work with their "mentors" outside of school. NHS, on the other hand, comprised of those juniors and seniors who have met criteria for membership. Because of a recent charter change, sophomores too are eligible after their first semester.

Olympics of the Mind: T. Grimes, N. Beckerman, T. DiGiacomo, C. Della-Penna.

Two other academic programs — both extra-curricular — are the Knowledge Bowl and Olympics of the Mind. The Knowledge Bowl is a question and answer game played between two teams of four players each. High school students from all over South Jersey compete for various amounts of scholarship money. Olympics of the Mind is an activity in which students refine problem-solving techniques for competition against fellow high school students. The students choose a problem and work on its solution during a club meeting. Both groups, we are happy to report, are doing well in their various competitions.

Barry Waddell proves home ec. offers practical skills for boys, too!

Academics must be important since most students spend at least six periods of the day learning about them. Here at RV, teachers try to cater to all the students' career options through a curriculum that is goal-oriented. There are three different programs from which a student can choose: College-prep, for students who are college bound; Business for students whose interests lie in going into the business world, and General, for students who are basically interested in employment directly after graduation.

ACTIVITIES

"Variety is the spice of life." It could also be the motto for the activity program at RV. In short there is an outlet for nearly every interest from armed services to xylophones. Though new programs are added regularly as interests and demands change, the activities themselves remain one of the more traditional aspects of the school program. What is significant here is that students may try as many different things as they have time for. Activities are encouraged because they complement the academics for a well-rounded education, and many become life-long interests for those involved. Students who are interested in trying SOMETHING DIFFERENT are very likely to find an activity to suit their needs.

Student Council-For A Better R.V.

All students at RV are members of the Student Government and are represented by a Council composed of elected officers and representatives. The purpose of Student Council is the unification of the student body at RV by promoting spirit-oriented activities and rendering services to the entire school community. Under their sponsorship, dances, talent shows, pep rallies, assembly programs, schoolwide contests and competitions for all students are arranged.

The Concert Choir, under the direction of Mr. Hilbert and accompanied by Lisa Cady, gave many performances throughout the school year. They gave a winter concert as well as their annual Christmas concert; several choir members also participated in the Christmas play "Scrooge." In addition to presentations to the students, the choir performed at the Mount Holly Extended Care Center, Burlington Center, and several of the area elementary schools. Our choir was also chosen to represent all of Burlington County in a social Christmas program for television.

Orchestra Performs With The Best

The Symphonic Orchestra and String Orchestra add another dimension to the well-rounded music program available for students at Rancocas Valley. These two musical organizations enable those students who play an orchestral instrument a chance to expand their talents and expose themselves to the best in music literature within the confines of the group's ability. Through hard work, tedious rehearsals, and actual concert performances, students have a chance to grow musically and personally by being part of a group and sharing its inherent responsibilities.

Dawn Clarke was selected for the All-State Orchestra.

Composed of the more advanced players of the Marching Band, the Wind Ensemble is another of RV's fine musical groups. Practicing regularly, and giving two concerts yearly the group performs the best in band literature.

The purpose of the band is to expand musical knowledge and enjoyment through participation and performances. Among such performances are the Winter and Spring concerts, and a combining with the Wind Ensemble to form the Marching and Graduation Bands.

Dixieland And Stage Band Keep The Music Rolling

Dixielanders: Row 1: L. Cady. Row 2: K. Markel, D. Lumby, T. DiGiacomo, W. Hosbach, B. Devlin, D. Jago, W. Wilson.

The final two musical groups in RV's line-up are the "Dixielanders" and the Stage Band. Contrary to popular opinion, Bourbon Street does not have a monopoly on Dixieland music. Rancocas Valley boasts its own outstanding combo. "The Dixielanders." This eight-member group brings its own taste of "Dixie" to both local and regional audiences, as well as the State by representing the school in the Teen Arts Festival. As a balance, the Stage Band gives the students experience in performing jazz, rock, swing, and other popular styles with a "big band" sound. Selected through audition, the group performs both in and out of school on request.

At RV students are fortunate enough to have the opportunity for some expert theatre experience. Dedicated to at least one performance each marking period, Performing Arts is definitely not for beginners, but rather for those already possessing experience or training. The group usually plans four to six shows a year and gives ten to fifteen performances of these plays.

With such a program available to them on a daily basis, it is not surprising then that several of these students go on to membership in the International Thespian Society, an honor society for high school dramatics. Only the six most qualified students per year are admitted to this prestigious society. These six in turn become the backbone of all RV theatricals.

Homecoming Brings Out . . .

Homecoming Week is an annual event at RV when students, parents, staff, and all alumni are encouraged to show support for their high school through participation and/or attendance at the variety of activities planned for the week. The theme this year was "RV: Past, Present, and Future." In accordance with this theme, classes prepared spirit posters, banners, and floats which were judged by "local celebrities" to determine the class which would win the "Most-Spirited-Homecoming-Week Class Award." The week's activities culminated with a bon-fire pep rally on Friday night and on Saturday a parade, luncheon, alumni reception, football game, Homecoming queen crowning and Homecoming dance.

The Senior Class took Second Place honors.

It was First Place for the Junior Class with their float "Rock-Cocas Valley."

Talk about good, family entertainment! This certainly was it! The staff and students - 50plus on a strictly voluntary basis from the director to the last stage hand- went all-out to put on a show of exceptional quality. If you missed it, you missed a great deal. It was a "professional effort" from start to finish. An added bonus here was that while these people were giving so much of themselves for our pleasure, they were also raising scholarship money for a student going into the area of fine arts in college. The cast and crew could not have been happier doing so. If you passed the show up, maybe you'll be lucky enough to catch any encore sometime in the future. Juniors Wish For "Christmas Miracles"

One social event that continues to be very popular among students is the Christmas Dance, sponsored by the Junior Class. Open to all students and their guests, the dance on December 17, 1983 featured the music of "DJ" Don Banks and centered on the theme "Christmas Miracles."

Attendance alone shows how successful the dance was.

Other write-ups have presented RV's view about the particular event or activity featured. For this page our foreign friends do the reverse by presenting their impressions of RV to you.

From Nilo Carvojal of Chile: "I liked the people of RV and the friendly atmosphere in the classrooms. I also liked the different kind of sports in RV. I enjoyed my short stay here and would like to come back again."

From Vince Bary of Belgium: "Being an exchange student here at RV was a great experience. I had the opportunity to meet a lot of very interesting people. I made some very good friends, and I saw a different way of life. I will always remember the year I spent in Mr. Holly."

From Luciano Wildner of Brazil: "The first week in the United States was very difficult because I didn't understand anything. This country was very different from Brazil. With the help of friends, teachers, and family things are better now."

From Antonio Echave of Spain: "Before I came to America I was scared to death. I was scared because I did not know how I would get along. Thank God that things were really excellent and today I feel more confident and happier than in my whole life. I finally want to advise people to go ahead and get into an exchange program. Don't think that the world is America. There are many other places to see and people to meet."

In '84, RV shines in academic competitions. The Math League, led by Mr. Russo, placed fifth, the highest for the school in the last four years. Any student who shows up for the bus is allowed to participate! Of course, students must have both interest and skill in Math. The competition is composed of six questions in which five team members from each school may compete. The questions deal with any of the high school math courses.

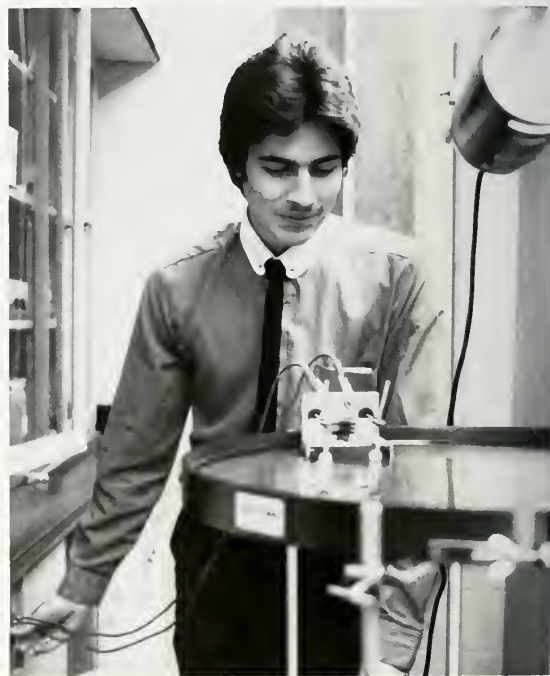

Another area in which RV shone was the NJ Science League. Our school participated in the Physics, Chemistry, and Biology tests. Competitors are picked for their interests and ability in a particular discipline. The Physics and Chemistry teams placed first, and they both have a great chance of placing first in the division.

Since its introduction in 1977, RVTV has come into its own under the direction of Mr. Jerry Crockenberg. Although many people think of RVTV only as "Playback," it is also in charge of producing video presentations for other school events. The crew receives expert instruction in audio-visual technology, and many go on to careers in communications. Perhaps staff members appreciate the crew's skills the most when projectors won't work or the video players show only static lines. The first people to the rescue are the RVTV troubleshooters.

The Holly Spirit has been our school newspaper for the past 39 years and is still going strong. It is put out every month, more or less, by a group of selected students. The advisor, Mr. Danser, is assisted by his editors, students from his 7th period journalism class, and students who just like to write. The paper's main purpose is to keep students current on the happenings here at RV.

This year the Red Oak editors took on an ambitious task: to prepare a yearbook that is different from all other RV yearbooks. That we succeeded is a miracle in every sense of the word. Scheduling difficulties reduced the usual 10 editors to 5: Michelle Dillon, Chris Steinmetz, and Mike Harris worked on raising funds, while Tracy Morse and Jon Esposito were left to prepare the book. Junior Sandy Cole was drafted to do the typing and other odd jobs when no other seniors were available. Plagued further by photography problems, we even had to switch studios in the middle of the year. Reluctant to give up our original plan, we sacrificed afternoons, evenings, weekends, and even vacations to put the book you're now reading in your hands. We are proud that we accepted the responsibility, and we hope that those who see this book appreciate our efforts.

Being "Different" Takes Lots Of Hard Work

ATHLETICS

Pointing out differences in athletics is easy, and a quick glance through this section will show you why. First, we have said farewell to former Athletic Director Mr. Raymond Hoagland. Additionally, we have added a brand new sport to the roster, swimming. We have even put cheerleaders on the wrestling circuit! You will notice too that spring sports, formerly confined to the supplement, are here with all the other sports to make the section complete. The athletic section truly is SOMETHING DIFFERENT this year.

Facts & Figures:

Sports for boys: 11

Sports for girls: 11

Total number of teams: 42

*Athletic budget: approximately $85,000 for 1983-84

Number of students involved in athletics: approximately 45%

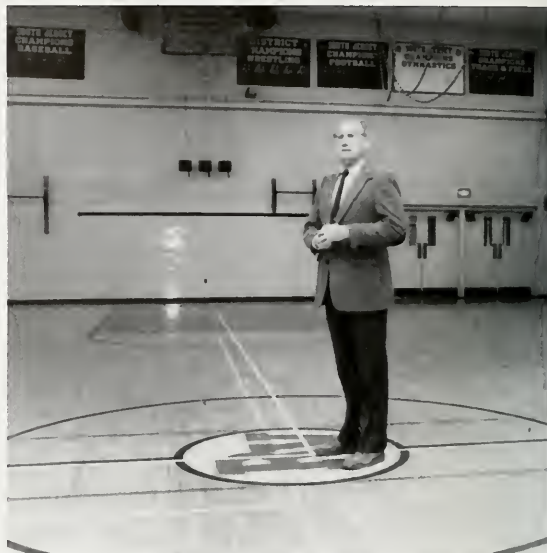

New Athletic Director: Mr. Carmen Cella

Cost of providing officials: approximately $13,000.

Cost of transportation: approximately: $32,000.

Coaching salaries are not included.*

This year saw the end of an era in RV's athletic programs. After 36 years as a school employee, Mr. Raymond Hoagland retired and turned over his duties as Athletic Director, a position he held since 1958, to Mr. Carmen Cella. Along with his duties as Athletic Director, Mr. Hoagland served as cross country and track coach. His record over 30 seasons in track was 253 wins and 30 losses. Cross country's was equally strong at 198 wins and 38 losses. Under his leadership RV once boasted a streak of 82 consecutive dual meet victories. Needless to say, it will be quite some time - if ever - that any RV coach will attain such marks. RV extends its appreciation to Mr. Hoagland and wishes him well as he retires. We know that RV will seldom be out of his thoughts; and for those of us who knew and worked with him, he will seldom be out of ours.

Mr. Hoagland takes time to reflect.

Camaraderie prevails!

This was a tough year for the Red Devil football team. It produced the first winless season ever for RV's varsity, but it also saw a record-setting field goal — 50 yards by Kevin Cunningham. This season showed that it takes courage to go out and give one's "all" every week — just for a game. It developed skills in the younger players that will help out in the seasons to come, evidenced by the successes of the junior varsity, sophomore, and freshman teams. Above all it showed that getting knocked down is no disgrace. Getting back up to try again shows character and pride and allows the Red Devils to hold their heads high.

After thirty years as the "boss," former Coach Gordon looks on as a fan.

The results in terms of wins and losses were not indicative of the hard work, commitment and strong desire put forth by the teams. Although the records did not shine, there were some bright spots in the season. Senior Tri-Captain Mike Harris and senior Matt Wightman were honored by being named to several all-star teams. Both Harris and Wightman were placed on Burlington County All-County teams, and Harris was also awarded All-South Jersey and All-State nominations. There will be a spirited group of underclassmen back next season, so the coach should have little trouble filling the seven vacancies that will be left in the starting lineup after graduation. The experience gained from this past season should help produce a winning season in 1984.

Varsity Hockey's A Ball - Girls Stick With It

Though they finished with mixed seasons, the field hockey teams' progress this year was evident through their desire, enthusiasm, and overall skill improvement. There were 55 girls who competed for the teams. The accomplishments of the beginners as well as the improvement of the more experienced players was rewarding to observe. Expectations for the 1984 season are high because of the number of girls returning (there were only five seniors this year), improvement in game defense, and commitment to the sport.

X-Country Goes On To A Winning Season

Chris Perron runs to another victory.

One of Rancocas Valley's many interesting fall sports is Cross Country. This season has been a good one since it's the first winning season in three years. Varsity lost three close meets but came out with an overall record of seven wins and five losses. Rancocas Valley definitely seems to be on its feet, but more underclassmen are wanted and needed to keep up the winning tradition.

Ken Cloak comes in for a strong finish.

It takes much skill and effort to participate in any sport. The Rancocas Valley 1983 gymnastics team proved just that. Although the team's record ended 0 and 9, the coaches noted a definite improvement from last season. The girls should be given credit for going to each meet and trying harder everytime, especially those who remained the whole season: senior Marlise Narke, junior Donna Gallagher, sophomores Kelli Smith, Kim Lutz, Tonya Holland, and Cheryl VanSciver. The overall team score went up ten points from last year. During this year each girl who went out competed. We hope for a stronger turnout next season, especially among our freshmen. Let's hope for an even better 1984 season!

A short skirt, a red sweater, and a smile - many people think these are the things that make a cheerleader, but much more is involved. A girl must suffer through clinics, win a position, attend camp, and participate in endless practices. Besides this, she must be able to sing, dance, tumble, yell, and remember the words to over a hundred cheers, chants, and songs. Suddenly, it is not as easy as most believe it to be.

This year particularly has been a rewarding one for the cheerleading program. Not only were the girls able to share in the efforts of toher RV sports' teams, but they were able to demonstrate and be rewarded for thier own accomplishments through competitions.

Rancocas Valley's winter sports certainly proved to be very successful and the boys' basketball teams were no exception. Mr. Ron Powell, first year head coach, helped the Devils beat the odds by leading them to their first winning season since 1979 and the fourth overall. The team also surprised many by defeating the high-powered Willingboro team for the first time in seven years. Coach Powell's understanding and confidence helped to instill the positive outlook displayed by the players. Their new image was further exemplified in their wearing dress clothes to away games to show that the pride in themselves gave them a new outward look.

Special congratulations are extended to senior guard Lee Nesmith for surpassing the 1000 mark in career points scored.

Small Numbers Add Up To Big Wins For Girls

Another year, another season — and what a season it was! Together all three teams ran up a - 32 win - 32 loss season by excellent play and dedication to their sport. Both the girls and the coaches can be proud of this record. What is even more remarkable is that the success of this season depended on a relatively small number of girls. It is not easy to rack up winning scores when there are few if any substitutes. Hats off to these squads for being willing to make the sacrifices necessary for team success. Let's hope such sacrificing is contagious.

Special notes: The girls won second place in their Christman Tournament played at Nottingham. They also qualified for the State Tournament. Special recognition to Stephanie Pitts for making 3rd Team in the Burlington County Liberty Division.

Winter Track Teams "Warm-Up" For Spring

Winter track is basically a conditioning program to keep athletes in top form between fall and spring sports. All of the coaches seem to agree the 1984 season was successful. The team went to Lawrenceville for one dual meet, and they also participated in several South Jersey developmental meets which went well.

In the Group Three Meet the team placed sixth overall under captains Chris Perron, Ken Pancoast, Ron Hoffman, and Eugene Munford. It was here that Eugene Munford became the Group Three State Champ in the fifty-five meter hurdles with a time of 7.4.

Coaches Mr. Demby, Mr. Holland, and Mr. Moore say that both the girls' and the boys' teams were high in accomplishment and individual achievement. For next year the coaches are looking forward to seeing a few new faces out for the team.

Special honors to Eugene Munford who finished 10th in the high hurdles in the Eastern Championship Meet.

New Team Starts In The Right Lane

For years parents have been pushing for a swim team, but the School Board's main objection was that there would not be enough participation. Once announced, 48 students showed up! The team's 5-4 record adds another plus to the continuation of this team.

"This year can be summed-up by saying the team was a total success. A success in participation, team spirit, and a winning record. For a first year team, nothing could be expected, no one had any idea what Ranocas Valley would produce. By our first meet, we found a lot of swimming talent in this high school. Not only did we prove this to ourselves but to many other high schools as well. With the bulk of the team being underclassmen you can look for RV to be a state power within the next few years." -Coach Rosemary McLaughlin.

John Yowa gets off to a good start in the free-style.

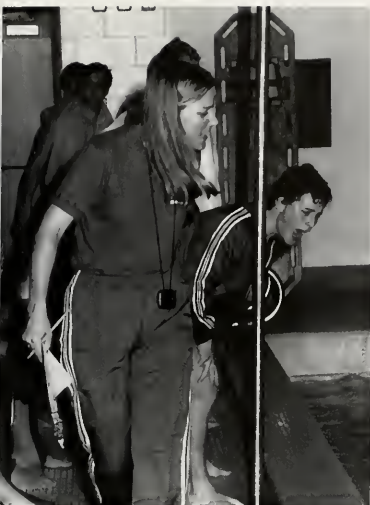

Kim Lutz positions herself for her next dive.

Tim Holcroft is on his way to the water.

Richard Slafer comes up for air.

Coach McLaughlin and Dan Trilling cheer the team.

The 83-84 Wrestling team showed the strong determination and dedication of the boys who participated. With only 10 out of a possible 12 people on the lineup, they were able to compete with the frontrunners of the county. Starting with a big win over Northern Burlington, the team rolled on to a third place finish in the District 26 standings, and its first winning record in several years. The team is hoping next year to be an outstanding one with the majority of the team returning. They also are hoping for greater support from the student body, as participants as well as fans.

The 1984 baseball season, the last one for veteran coach Mr. Carmen Cella, was largely one of rebuilding. Eighteen players made up the team, but only four of them were returning letter winners. The burden of leadership fell directly on them until the underclassmen felt comfortable in the varsity ranks. Enthusiastic junior varsity and freshman team members worked hard on basics that will provide the foundation for strong future teams.

RV's Softball Fortunes Are Once Again Flying High As

The 1984 softball season saw five returning varsity letter holders battling with some enthusiastic newcomers for starting positions. Despite some inexperience, the varsity squad used speed, aggressiveness, and enthusiasm to their advantage, finishing the season with a respectable record, and having shown much improvement over recent seasons. The freshman and junior varsity squads followed suit, bringing rather good skills from experience in the sending districts or CYO League. Willingness to work hard and learn made blending their talents an easy task. RV's softball fortunes are indeed looking up!

Coach Demby sets up for a meet.

With only six returning letter winners, the 1984 track squad had its work cut out for it this season. Twenty-five juniors and seniors were complemented by twenty-one sophomores, giving a sure indication that interest is on the rise, and future teams will be able to start the succeeding seasons with much more experience. Freshmen rounded out the program with twenty-two more participants, the larger frosh squad in three years. Developing the young athletes to the point of scoring was the primary goal of this year's season along with improving last season's 1-8 record.

Jeff Lumby lines up his putt.

With One Of The Strongest Teams In The County

The 1984 golf team had to overcome the disadvantage of not being able to practice during its pre-season. As usual, wind, water, and a host of other weather elements thwarted sustained use of the gold course. Four seniors, however, wished to end their RV golf careers on a championship note: Darrell Fairleigh, Mike Cormier, Rich Pancoast, and Jon Esposito were the heart of this team and as good as any foursome on the schedule. Supported by freshmen Sean Boyer and Doug Palma, the linksmen sought League, County, and District honors.

Rich Pancoast chips to the 17th green.

Mike Cormier tees off on the 11th hole.

Jon Esposito knocks in a putt.

Jeff Brose gets ready for his first putt on the green.

Diana Meccico, Jennifer English, and Jackie Noe vie for the ball.

Team members Jackie Noe and Juli Redefor warm up.

Michele Fork defends her position.

During the 1984 season, the lacrosse team employed a new strategy of zone defense, allowing fewer goals than in their previous, improved year. Offense increased its scoring under new assistant coach Lori Glaser. The team's toughest opponents remained Moorestown, Moorestown Friends, and Cherry Hill East. A rivalry has begun against Camden Catholic, Cinnaminson, and Maple Shade, games in which the leads were constantly exchanged. Sophomore Cheryl VanSciver, junior Stacy Hibbard, and seniors Debbie Jeffreys and Jackie Noe were the anchors for the team. "Without them," said Coach Beth Magnus, "the team would have struggled to win."

The Tennis League is one of the toughest in the state, so aiming for a five-hundred season was realistic. Two returning lettermen, seniors Mike Pede and Mark Santilli, played the best opponents in the state and held their own with them. The rest of the team was made up of freshmen and sophomores who should help make RV a strong contender in the future.

UNDERCLASS

SOMETHING DIFFERENT is no problem when it comes to underclassmen. They change yearly, weekly, daily as they follow their path through RV, adjusting to its routine, participating in its activities and athletics, learning how to live among others who are different from themselves. No two student groups are ever alike, and that's what makes for an interesting school.

RV is a "regional" school, meaning students come from five townships: Eastampton, Hainesport, Lumberton, Mt. Holly, and Westampton. Some of these students are bussed to school on some thirteen busses that make both regular morning and afternoon runs. In addition, two other runs are made after 9th period and at six o'clock for those who stay beyond the day for tutoring or participation in extra-curricular activities.

Most of RV's students take great pride in the school. It is, after all, the most attractive high school in Burlington County. Even though an occasional vandal or budding graffiti artist rears his ugly head, things are quickly restored to normal — often by other students.

Facts & Figures:

Students from Eastampton: approximately 183

Students from Hainesport: approximately 137

Students from Lumberton: approximately 208

Students from Mt. Holly: approximately 541

Students from Westampton: approximately 175

*Approximate total enrollment: 1245 **

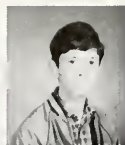

Number of students bussed to school: approximately 200

Number of underclassman homerooms: 46

Cost of education 1(one) student at RV: $4,200.

 Seniors are included in all enrollment figures.*

About mid-year the Red Oak staff distributed a questionnaire to random English classes of all four grades. The emphasis of questions was on change. We wanted to see how, depending on one's grade in school, students responded differently to the same basic questions. We wanted to see how viewpoints and priorities change with age. To say the least, the findings were very interesting and informative. We believe that from the responses to the questionnaire we were able to compile a rather accurate composite of what RV students are all about. Thus here begins our portrait- logically at the beginning with the freshmen.

Freshmen try to show some enthusiasm towards their first year of high school.

Lauren Cathcart studies hard at her desk.

Most of us come from significantly smaller schools so it is no surprise that many of our impressions prior to attending RV zeroed in on its size. Most freshmen said they were apprehensive about the increased numbers of students, and they feared beyond that that many of these students would be hostile. Some pre-conceived impressions even pictured RV as a "death-trap" with "fighting going on constantly." Others envisioned it as "a prison where seniors are the firing squad and freshmen are the victims." Happily these notions changed once freshmen were officially enrolled.

Some earlier thoughts naturally turned to more specific items. Academically we expected a real challenge; some of us even anticipated great difficulties. Both proved to be realities. There were challenges here, and good grades were more difficult to come by. Homework was required in most classes, and in some it counted as much as a third of the grade. Final exams also seemed a serious threat to passing classes — and enjoying the summer! And what's this? Attendance counts? Now we had to think twice about "bagging it." Missing sixteen classes in a yearly course meant losing credit, and we couldn't depend on being granted an appeal. It suddenly became very clear that academics mattered. We had to care about our work. Those who didn't would likely be freshmen again next year. We had to take measures to avoid that embarrassment. There really seemed to be some truth to the idea that teachers don't fail students; students fail themselves.

Thinking about our days beyond high school seems quite remote to most of us at this point. We're just "rookies" busy figuring out where our lockers and classes are! What most of us spend our time doing is just being freshmen — doing all the strange things freshmen are expected to do. After all, why disappoint anyone? Oh, some of us have an idea what we would like to do or be, but these ideas are easily changed. Why even some of the seniors aren't sure what their plans are! Why should we be expected to know what ours are? Like Scarlet O'Hara we will think about it tomorrow. After all, we have plenty of time to get serious. Before then we want to enjoy each day and year as it comes. Responsibilities will pile up soon enough.

Lynn Santilli and her classmates concentrate on their typing skills.

Tony Hayes begins to work on his essay.

As far as activities were concerned, some of us decided to get involved while others of us chose to sit back. Our reasons for doing so varied as much as our interests did. Those who were involved felt a special need to participate, to be a part of a group, to develop a particular talent. Some of them saw activities as a very important part of a well-rounded education. Others preferred to spend their time adjusting to high school or working on their studies. Some were afraid to get in over their heads. Whatever our reasons, we decided to take a route that best suited each of us. With three years ahead of us, there would still be time to change our minds if our feelings or interests changed.

From the sophomores we learned the major difference between freshman and sophomore year is that more responsibilities are placed upon tenth graders. The work load in school has increased along with the difficulty of the courses. The level of athletic competition changed too. There was far more competition for teams, and now we were involved with members of the other classes instead of just our own. Some of us found success, but others of us soon realized we couldn't compete at a higher level. So we found other things to occupy our time.

Is Friendship

Activities may have been just the thing to keep our interest. With academics a little better under control over our freshman year, many felt we could venture on to new and different things. We were no longer excluded because of being "just freshmen." We enjoyed this new freedom. Our class as a whole had more to do in the way of activities too. Several of us had fun lending a hand building our homecoming float, something we didn't have a chance to do last year. We had a successful dance and a fund raiser that actually raised some funds!

Most significant was that we weren't just "little freshmen" anymore. That alone was the best part of being a sophomore. We all have a way to go; we're not in the best of positions yet. Freshmen do not really look up to us, and the juniors and seniors still look down on us. We're on the borderline of growing up; we're "in between." However, we are certainly not at the bottom anymore, and that feels good! We are on the way up, and we can begin to think about what we might like to do in the years after high school. Several of us plan on going to college. Others are thinking about trade schools or immediate employment. Regardless, we have come to realize that what we did this sophomore was important. Our grades should have been better and shown steady improvement over last year. The courses we take from now on should not be easy ones to give us good grades, but the challenging one that will give us the best chance to learn something of value. Our progress here is another indication that we are growing up.

This is not to say that some of us are not taking the easy way out! Some of us have tried many easy ways out! And we all haven't been successful. We have become acquainted with in-school suspension. We have also learned what Saturday study sessions are all about. The new-found "freedom" from being a lowly freshman has been more than some of us could handle.

One thing that carried over from our freshman year is the importance of friends. Many of the friendships we established last year have grown stronger. Some old friendships have dissolved, but new ones have come to take their place. We have even discovered that friends are what make the unpleasant parts of school bearable. Friends are why we come to dances, join activities, enjoy classes, look forward to lunch. They are the single brightest aspect of Mondays, September, and the end of vacations. Friends are likely what we will remember first and best when our high school days are passed.

The Class Of 1985

Our survey showed us that next to the freshmen, the juniors had some of the greatest expectations of us all. The difference between them and the freshmen was that for the most part, juniors know what they're doing and where they're going. They are not bewildered or awed by the school, its rules, nor by what it expects of them. They are comfortable here. They have matured and settled down since sophomore year. "We are really no longer underclassmen, but almost seniors, almost finished with high school, almost adults," commented one junior. And most of her classmates agree with the statement. They like this position. Next year they will be on top. They have everything to look forward to, and they feel secure because by now they know from older friends, brothers, and sisters what next year will be like.

Juniors Like Roll Awaiting Them Next Year At RV

As juniors we have worked harder this year because of an increasing awareness of the outside world. We have to be prepared for it because in a year from now we will be out in it. We also don't want to go to summer school; nor do we want to have to "double-up" or go to night school in order to graduate. Some of our senior friends have had to do one of these, and none of them is to our liking. Yet at the same time it's comforting to know that these alternatives are available, and that we have a whole year left to put everything in order. In short, we have time to make it or suffer. So our thoughts are more forward-looking than those of the freshmen and sophomores. The future is more of a reality for us than for them. We have begun to think seriously about life after RV.

For many of us life after RV will consist of full or part-time employment. In fact many of us have jobs now. This alone adds an extra burden because it becomes increasingly difficult to keep the priorities straight. We need and like the money the job provides, and we sometimes put the school work aside in favor of overtime on the job. As a result we have trouble keeping up, and many of us have found that "I had to work until midnight" is not an excuse our English or history teacher likes to hear.

For others of us college is a very real part of our future. We have tried to study and learn more, hoping it's enough to earn us respectable scores on the SAT's. We have begun to write to and even visit colleges in order to be ready to make a decision when the real decision has to be made next year. We are beginning to think about loans and scholarships to help with the frightening costs of such an education. Largely because of the expense, many of us will likely venture to county or state schools. After all, we are practical individuals — "almost seniors, almost adults."

Regina Chapman and Joyce Johnson practice some secretarial skills.

Counts Here!

SENIORS

Whoever would have thought that four years would pass so quickly! Being a senior seemed like such a long way off in September of 1980. Now we enjoy laughing at the incoming freshmen because we have conveniently forgotten that we were once just like them. (We don't even want our best friends to remember the way we were then!) RV has been good to most of us. We have gotten out of it what we have invested in it, and for many of us that has been a great deal. Some of us have achieved recognition for academic excellence, athletic prowess, musical and artistic talents, as well as a host of other complimentary items. Some of us have also been suspended a time or two. After all, we're only human!

Where we go from here depends totally on us. We would like to hope that we will all be healthy, happy, and successful in life, but reality will probably show us otherwise. We would like to hope too that we will always remember our classmates, but we are not idealistic enough to trust that notion. After all, that's really why we purchased this yearbook.

In it we find the Class of 1984 last — not because we are least important, but because we are the most important part of the educational story. This is what it's all about, the virtual milestone. From here we will go our separate ways, pursuing our individual goals. In that respect we will all be looking for SOMETHING DIFFERENT. Yet in the end we'll come back to one common bond: Rancocas Valley Regional High School. And for all our differences, we will share that very special similarity forever.

Seniors Share Impressions Gathered At RV

The questionnaire that was distributed to the underclassmen was altered slightly for seniors so that their thoughts could reflect their four years at RV. Their comments were not greatly different from the other classes, and composites of their impressions appear near the end of this section.

Since we wanted to know more, we went a step beyond the survey and tried to zero in on specific things that seniors felt were an important and memorable part of either their senior year or the four years spent at RV. Some of what we gathered appears in this section. We selected those that seemed to be representative of what was on the minds of seniors in 1984, ones that we hope will help you recall some more personal thoughts of your own.

There Was No Way To Ignore Orwell's Novel

The book 1984 by George Orwell has had an impact on my awareness of current and future society. I find it impossible to imagine a world without emotion, hardship, or individual thought. This is the society Orwell presented in his book and the society that many fear we are moving toward. We must guard against a society that watches, judges, and convicts people who show basic human emotions. Even the concept of this type of world is outrageously inhuman.

I realize that our world is involved in a technological revolution. Hopefully, though, if people show intelligence and sensitivity in considering the future, the world written about in 1984 will never come to be.

Looking back on my four years in high school, I can honestly say that the things I have done in the past will affect my future. Like everyone else, I wish I had done my best in my academics, but unfortunately we all make mistakes.

In the future, I'll probably look back and think that my high school years were "the best time of my life," although if someone were to ask me now, I'd say they are the worst. It's sometimes tough to see the truth.

In reality, my senior year seems to be the best. I am really learning who I am and where I'm going. I'm glad things changed for me! I'm a much better person, and I'm starting to plan my future. Once I graduate, I know I'll remember my senior year more than any of the others I spent in school. It has been a very significant one for me.

In Many Ways Clothes Revealed Our Maturity

Since our freshman year our choice of clothing styles has changed. As freshmen, just making it through the day was the main priority. As a result, whatever we found first was worn, usually jeans and a rock T-shirt. During our sophomore year our taste improved. We substituted a pair of cords for the jeans. By the time our junior year swung around, we had jobs and bought our own clothes. The trouble was we bought the most expensive ones and could only afford a few outfits. Finally, as seniors, we have learned to pinch our pennies and coordinate our wardrobe. At last we have truly learned to dress ourselves!

During my four years in high school reading has become an important asset to my life. I have certainly learned far more by reading than by watching television. The books I read this year have been especially valuable. Ones like Demien, The Stranger, and Brave New World introduced me to the ideas of existentialsim. They showed me a new outlook on life I never knew existed. I'm glad my teachers have emphasized reading, and I hope they continue to do so for those who come through RV after me.

National Events Helped Broaden Our Perspectives

Perfecting business skills is rewarding for Yolanda Smallwood.

Since we entered RV as freshmen there have been many national news events. Some were terrible and some were good.

A couple of terrible events include the wars in Lebanon and Grenada. These conflicts caused the loss of many American lives. Another event, though fictional, also affected us. The television movie "The Day After" gave us a picture of the horrors of nuclear holocaust. It caused a lot of people to take seriously the threat of nuclear war.

Not everything that has occurred has been negative though. First, a major event that affected us was the election of President Reagan in 1980. There are always good and bad things to say about a president; but, for the most part he has been an effective president.

One of the greatest events to take place was the launch of the space shuttle. Not only has it expanded the science of flight, but it has also broadened America's future in space exploration.

These are just a few of the happenings of the past four years, but they are things that will affect us for years to come.

The movies have been a special part of my life and everyone else's life I'm sure. Having the local cinema around the corner has always been a constant and a mainstay, especially for the younger age group. The movies serve not only as a simple type of entertainment, they also serve as a social medium for most high school students. If friends want to do something, but they aren't quite sure what, they can say, "Hey, let's go to the movies," and there will be no arguments. We might not always like what's playing, but at least we have found something to do with our time.

Music Had A Strong Influence On Our Lives

During my years in high school, music has had a major influence in my life. Concerts, parties, movies, relationships, and just being alone all can be recalled when a certain song or group triggers a special memory. Music also helps influence my mood. It helps me deal with my emotions and usually brings me to a better state of mind.

There are specific songs that will forever remind me of my high school days. Some of those memories will be happy ones while others make me recall events that might not have been pleasant to deal with. One thing is for sure, however, music is a very important part of my life.

The past four years have seen many changes in fads. There have been fads in dance, hair, and clothes styles. As far as dance is concerned, perhaps the most current style is "Break Dancing." This combines the martial arts and gymnastics and is performed to music created by mixing different songs or tunes. Those who can do it well are fascinating to watch and gather a crowd easily.

Hair style is another fad. It is no longer necessary to have your hair done the same way as everyone else. Now the more creative and bizarre, the better.

One other fad is clothing styles. People have gone from the "preppie" look of just a year ago, with little alligators on their clothes, to the "punk" look, complete with leather, chains, and spiked apparel. Mini skirts are also back. It does not really matter if a style goes out. Give it ten or twenty years and it will be back in style as strong as before. — Kim Tower

Famous People Helped Shape Our World And Thoughts

Famous personalities can be great influences on our lives. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was such a man. If he had not been assassinated, he would have been a key figure in bringing peace to the Middle East.

Another influential person was the late Leonid Brezhnev. Through him there was a possibility for improved relations between the superpowers. We were on the verge of these better relations in communications and nuclear arms when he died.

A third personality has had an entirely different effect on our lives. His name is Michael Jackson. Besides setting records in the music industry, he has caused music video to become a major form of entertainment. Because of his talents in singing, dancing, acting, and directing he has become one of the hottest superstars in the world today.

Senioritis is a phenomenon that affects almost every student in Rancocas Valley Regional High School. During my freshman and sophomore years, Senioritis did not play any significant role. I had more of a case of spring fever than anything else. I had not been in RV that long, and I was not really looking forward to leaving.

During my junior year, I started to feel the symptoms of Senioritis. I stopped doing my homework and even started taking little vacations to the shore. It was as if I were a senior getting near graduation.

Finally, here we are the class of 1984 and I really am a senior. This year not only did I get symptoms, but I caught the whole disease. Here it is February and I am already slacking off and getting ready to graduate. Seniorities came on ever-so gradually in the first three years, but now I am a senior and I "got it bad."

Home video has had a very big influence in everyone's life during the past four years. It has brought us into a new concept in fast entertainment. We now have devices that allow us to record events in our own homes with a simple press of a button. Certainly video is one of the most popular breakthroughs of our time.

When I was a freshman, video was for people who could afford the most expensive things. It was just starting out, but it made a fantastic impact on the market. It bore the name Betamax. Then came the VHS system of recording. Competition fortunately caused video to become less expensive in my sophomore and junior years, even though it was more innovative and easier to use. A new market of "video movies" was established, and now we could not only buy tapes for home viewing, but also rent them.

People started to buy video recorders in excess because they were an alternative to HBO or other home entertainment cable channels. Instead of people -including myself- thinking of video as a thing of the future, it was right in the present, slapping us on our faces, beckoning us to try it -and many of us did, including me.

It is a very important influence in my life now. I started to work in RVTV with video and this experience brought me to an even broader awareness of video. I have learned that one can not only tape video, but film and edit video. This thing called "video" is something that has changed my thinking and my life, and I can honestly say, I love it!

At 6:30 A.M. Saturday, March 24, 1984, approximately 100 of us met at the school to get on buses to Philadelphia where we would board planes for Orlando, Florida. The senior trip was underway! For many it was the first flight and the first trip to such a distant place. It was an experience we will probably never forget. The first stop took us to Cypress Gardens, a lovely spot — the best we know of for a water balloon fight. Great fun! Next it was off to Disneyworld and Epcot, truly magical places. The final stop was Sea World.

The food was great, the weather absolutely perfect, and sleep totally out of the question! Our only regret is that everyone in the class didn't have the opportunity to go.

Teachers Were Willing To Lend Us A Helping Hand

Kim Rhodes talks with a college representative.

I've never thought so much about my future as I have this year. I can't believe what I consider my "future" is about to start. All through high school, time seemed like forever until I graduated, so why worry about the future. But in this past year the time has been absolutely flying by and I'm now making decisions that will affect the rest of my life.

Hopefully I'll be going to college and that will give me another 4, or at least 2, years to decide what I want to be. But if I don't, then I have no idea what I'll do. And I'm really scared. I have friends who are moving out after graduation. And they're scared, too. I keep thinking that I'm just not ready for this and that all of a sudden things are happening too fast.

But in a way it's exciting too. All our lives we say we can't wait to move out of home and be independent. Now it's as if someone is handing us all the independence and responsibility we can handle. It's up to us to decide and make our future. We wouldn't give it up for anything, but we can't help wondering if we do the right things, if everything will work out all right, or if the rest of our lives we'll be sorry for the wrong decisions. The future is right now!

Cabbage Patch dolls certainly took the world by storm at Christmas time in 1983. They more or less sold themselves without any verbal gimmicks. Then, whether we wanted to be or not, we found ourselves right in the middle of the advertising punch-line of the decade. Wendy's hamburger chain struck it big with its now famous "Where's the beef?" Some of us laughed along with the commercial; other of us couldn't get far enough away! No matter where we looked or what we listened to, there it was.

Regardless of our individual feelings, we certainly cannot overlook little, gray-haired Clara Peller and what may be as significant to 1984 as George Orwell's book itself.

Mia Curtsinger practices a complicated passage.

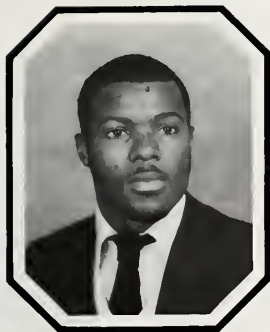

Only The Very Best Of Good Wishes Go With . . .

We seniors see ourselves as having grown both physically and emotionally during our four years at RV. The early shyness of freshman year has long left most of us. Teachers no longer hold our hands and lead us around. They expect us to manage on our own. Everyone expects it. And most of us can, especially when we have to. That's what the four years have been all about.

Rancocas Valley says goodbye to the Class of 1984. May what they've gained here carry them well and far into a future that brings them what they hope it will.

PATRONS

We have come to the end of the 1984 Red Oak. By now those who put it together for you hope that you feel it is and forever will be worth the price you paid for it. In fact if it works like past yearbooks, its value should increase significantly as the years go by. Years from now when you take it out to look through it, all those cliché's about "remembering when" will suddenly not seem so meaningless. We hope too that you have noticed that this Red Oak is unlike any Red Oak you have previously seen. We truly wanted the 1984 addition to be unique. We have changed the design and format, included articles, and captioned every picture so that as time begins to play its inevitable games with your once sure-fire memory, you will have something else to help you recall these faces, places, and events that are now a part of your personal history. The staff has worked exceptionally hard to present a memorable book for you, one that has presented SOMETHING DIFFERENT.

Facts & Figures:

Cost of the 1984 Red Oak: $20.

Number of yearbooks purchased: 815

Innovations: Different sections, new inclusions

IT DOES YOUR HOMEWORK.

All kinds of work around a home or small farm goes easier with a Kubota B5100 tractor. And the long list of features that come standard on this tractor put it at the head of its class.

Start with a sturdy 12 hp diesel engine. Plus rear PTO, six forward and two reverse speeds, hydraulic 3 point hitch, independent rear brakes, differential lock and your choice of 2- or 4-wheel drive.

A variety of implements can be used with the B5100. Including a mid-mount mower, rotary tiller, plow, front loader, disc harrow and rear blade. This Kubota can handle any assignment.

Nothing like it on earth.™

When you graduate to the Air Guard, your future's looking up.

And so is our country's. Because the professional men and women of the Air National Guard do more than provide the major portion of our national air defense. They provide aid in state and community emergencies as well.

Great benefits. Now and for your future.

By joining the Air Guard now, you'll be doing more than helping protect your community, state and home town. You'll be helping yourself.

Because the Air Guard is a part-time military job, you'll have plenty of time to pursue a civilian career. Or further your education which we may help you pay for.

What's more, we'll provide valuable technical training. The kind of training you could probably use to get a good civilian job or to advance in your chosen career.

Of course, you'll also receive low-cost life insurance, a retirement plan, base exchange privileges, and more. All for your part-time work in the Air Guard.

If you're ready to move ahead with your future, learn valuable job skills and earn extra income, call your Air Guard recruiter, toll-free, today. 800/638-0936. (In Maryland, call 301/981-6716. Outside the continental U.S., consult your local directory under state government.)
